With more than 25 years of experience as an environmental, health and safety consultant to multinational corporations, Cornerstone Environmental, Health and Safety is working hard to remain abreast of the latest information regarding COVID-19 as we battle this pandemic together. We want to ensure our clients and our associates stay informed.

“While we don’t know what challenges your facility may specifically be experiencing at this time, we wanted to take a moment to reiterate that Cornerstone is here for you as a trusted partner,” said Mark Miller, President. “How can we help? If your experience impacts on your production, staffing or management practices, please consider our knowledgeable and experienced staff to be at your disposal. If we can put another hat on and be an extension of your staff, we are happy to assist.”

Accordingly, we have found the following sites are providing relevant, up-to-the-minute information on the pandemic:

Recording workplace exposures to COVID-19

OSHA recordkeeping requirements at 29 CFR Part 1904 mandate covered employers record certain work-related injuries and illnesses on their OSHA 300 log.

COVID-19 can be a recordable illness if a worker is infected as a result of performing their work-related duties. However, employers are only responsible for recording cases of COVID-19 if all of the following are met:

1. The case is a confirmed case of COVID-19 (see
