Soprano Meghan Guse sang her first professional performance at age 12, when she provided backup vocals for a Japanese children's television show, and she has been actively performing ever since. While earning her Master of Music degree from the Chicago College of Performing Arts, she performed as Flora in Turn of the Screw and the Nightingale in L'enfant et les sortilèges. She also played Nerina in the American premiere of Cimarosa's L'infedeltà fedele with Millennium Chamber Players, and Zina in Third Eye Theatre's production of Nico Muhly's Dark Sisters. Meghan was also a company member of Vox 3 Collective. Prior to moving to Chicago, Meghan studied at Illinois Wesleyan University, and performed the role of Jenny in Kurt Weill's Down in the Valley. She spent her summers learning various Gilbert and Sullivan ingenue roles with Prairie Fire Theatre in Bloomington, IL. By day, she works as a software engineer.
